January 2008

Greetings! Sue Anderson, Center for American Indian Families at Maxwell Park Library, had a wonderful idea – she took the word “read” and worked with various tribes to have it translated into their native tongue. We would like to expand this project to include more American Indian languages. If you would like your tribal language included, please send the translation or ask your tribal language department to send it to me, trunnel@tulsalibrary.org. Take a look at the image:
