American Indian Higher Education Fair
Saturday, Oct. 13 • 10 a.m.-12:00p.m.

Central Library, 2nd floor and the Computer Training Room
400 Civic Center * 4th St. & Denver Ave. * 596-7977

Sponsored by the Tulsa Library Trust, Tulsa City-County Library's American Indian Resource Center, Readers' Library and Research Center.

This open house features representatives from colleges and universities, information from tribal higher-education offices, and library resources on colleges and financial aid. In addition to making contacts, students and their parents will have an opportunity to learn about library resources related to college funding.

"Show Me the Money"

10:30 a.m. – 11:30 a.m. * AIRC area, 2nd floor

This presentation takes a unique angle to the standard financial aid workshop. While it is financial aid information packed, it goes one step further by attempting to dispel the myth that Native Americans receive a free college education. Focus is on student accountability, applying for federal aid and scholarships.

Visit the Computer Training Room, 2nd floor, any time throughout the fair and find out about online resources to help in your search for the right college and the money to pay for that education.

Participating schools include: Ottawa University, Cherokee Nation, Community Care College, University of Tulsa Law Program, Tulsa Community College, OSU-Tulsa, College of the Muscogee Nation, Northeastern State University, Comanche Nation College, West Point, Ohio State University, Tulsa Public School Indian Pupil Education, Bacone College, Osage Nation, Oklahoma Health Academy/ Platt College, University of Science & Arts of Oklahoma, St. Gregory's University, University of Phoenix, University of Oklahoma and Wright Business School, United Tribes Technical College – North Dakota
