Hello! Analog TV is coming to an end. The official end of analog will happen on Feb 17, 2009. Anyone with an analog television will need a converter box (analog televisions will go black). The Department of Commerce will be distributing coupons that should reimburse individuals for the cost of the converter. The coupons will be available between Jan 1, 2008 and March 31, 2009.

Here are a few links that might help

American Indian Higher Education Fair

Saturday, Oct. 13 • 10 a.m.-noon

Central Library, 2nd floor and the Computer Training Room

400 Civic Center * 4th St. & Denver Ave. * 596-7977

Sponsored by the Tulsa Library Trust, Tulsa City-County Library's American Indian Resource Center, Readers' Library and Research Center.

This open house features representatives from colleges and universities, information from tribal higher-education offices, and library resources on colleges and financial aid. In addition to making contacts, students and their parents will have an opportunity to learn about library resources related to college funding.

"Show Me the Money"

10:30-11:30 a.m. * AIRC area, 2nd floor

This presentation takes a unique angle to the standard financial-aid workshop. While it is financial-aid information packed, it goes one step further by attempting to dispel the myth that Native Americans receive a free college education. Focus is on student accountability, applying for federal aid and scholarships.

Visit the Computer Training Room, 2nd floor, any time throughout the fair and find out about online resources to help in your search for the right college and the money to pay for that education.
