BIXBY LIBRARY branching out to serve an ever-growing community

MEET THE TEAM

It's all-girl power at the Bixby Library! This close-knit team of six has a common love – reading, of course!

MELISSA SMITH, site manager, has worked at Bixby Library for two years and a total of 28 years for the Tulsa City-County Library. An avid reader, Melissa's taste runs the gamut from romance and chick lit, to Christian and contemporary fiction, to suspense/psychological thrillers. Her newest favorite read is Celeste Ng's Everything I Never Told You, which "beautifully describes family dynamics and resiliency (or lack thereof) that carries on through generations." When Melissa is not reading or managing the library, she most likely is tending her flower garden, traveling, or spending quality time with her children and grandchildren.

PATTY LARSON, customer service assistant, joined the Bixby team and TCCL 10 years ago. Hand weaving and making scarves, shawls, blankets, towels and other textile items are Patty's favorite things to do in her spare time. Her current favorite book is David Grann's Killers of the Flower Moon, which is about the Osage murders in the 1920s and the birth of the FBI. "I like history and have never heard about this – it is such an interesting read!"

HOLLY MAYHALL, customer service assistant, has worked at Bixby Library and TCCL for nearly three years. Pride and Prejudice by Jane Austen is Holly's all-time favorite book as she said it was the very first Austen book that she read when she was a kid and that she loves the story, witty dialogue and all the great characters. Besides reading, Holly enjoys watching movies and hanging out with her friends.

growing community, Bixby's population increased more than 56 percent from the 2000 census to the 2010 census, becoming the 19th largest city in Oklahoma.

To better serve and meet the needs of this ever-growing community, the Bixby Library is branching out – partnering with local businesses and organizations, investing a lot of time and resources to help make a difference in the lives of the people it so proudly serves.

"Bixby is such a wonderful blend of sod and vegetable farms mixed with 21st century growth, giving the town a unique contemporary, rural feel," said Melissa Smith, Bixby Library site manager. "The Bixby Library is the bridge that brings this blend together. We are the cornerstone of the community."

spectacular storytime featuring Denver Broncos cornerback Chris Harris Jr., a Bixby High School graduate. While in the fall, you can find the staff reading stories in the pumpkin patch at Carmichael's on the south end of town. And in December, you can wave to them as they pass by on the library's float in the annual Bixby Christmas Parade.

Longtime library volunteer Donna Land has seen the value the Bixby Library has brought to the community over the many years she has lived in the town and volunteered at the library. In fact, she often encourages her own family – three children, 11 grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild – to use the Bixby Library and enjoy the many programs it offers throughout the year, as she wants to ensure that future generations value books and libraries – especially the so willing to help you find books and get information. I'm not really good on the computer, so I like to pick other people's brains to help me find resources," said the 81-year-old Land. "All of the library's programs are so wonderful and important. I love seeing the small children come in on Monday mornings to go to storytime. They get so excited about reading and books!"

The Bixby Library offers weekly Build A Reader family storytimes, a monthly book discussion for adults, a monthly manga/anime club for teens, as well as other special programming throughout the year. Check the event listings in this guide for more details. ■

The Bixby Library offers Gloria Harris, an ORU grad and nurse, a quiet retreat from the fast-paced Tulsa. She said the library has a calming effect.

MARY GREEN, lead customer service assistant, joined the Bixby team a year ago and has worked for TCCL a total of eight years. Mary said she can't get enough of Andre Norton's The Scent of Magic as she thoroughly enjoys re-reading it from time to time. She did manage to slip in a reading of Lydia Kang's Quackery: A Brief History of the Worst Ways to Cure Everything and says this hilarious review of major fails in medical history is her current fav! Spare time? Mary said she has children and goes to school full time, so she really doesn't have any spare time! But when she does sneak in a few minutes of Mary time, you can catch her binge watching Korean dramas, reading manga or playing video games such as "The Sims."

JESSICA HULSEY, customer service assistant, started at Bixby and TCCL in June 2017. Reading, baking and watching Netflix are Jessica's favorite pastimes. And, if you are in need of a great book, Jessica highly recommends Pierce Brown's Red Rising Trilogy. "It's an excellent story of a boy determining his own fate despite what is expected of him."

KATIE HANISCH, youth library associate, joined the Bixby family seven months ago and has worked a total of nearly six years for TCCL. She started as a Teen Teamer at Nathan Hale Library. Besides reading and writing, Katie loves hiking, listening to and playing music, crafting and being with family. "One of my favorite reads has always been the Young Wizards series by Diane Duane. I loved how the magic was modern and felt real, almost attainable, as opposed to the strongly fantasy-based magic in other stories. As a young teen, I identified strongly with the book-obsessed main character."
