

2019 OCCJ TRIALOGUE SERIES

For decades, social change activists have said, “If you want peace, work for justice.” But we also know that working for justice evokes conflict. Working with conflict is particularly difficult in a culture as highly polarized as today’s culture. The 2019 Trialogue series will begin with a skill-building session for dealing with conflict and bias. The following sessions will feature moderated panel conversations, one with elected leaders and another with religious leaders. Each panel will address matters of conflict, justice and peace in their work.
