American Book Award-winning poet and research scholar Tim Z. Hernandez will speak about his new book All They Will Call You, which examines the deportees Woody Guthrie wrote about in his iconic song “Plane Wreck at Los Gatos” (aka “Deportee”) and how he discovered the names of those lost in the plane crash in order to bring them the dignity left out of the historical record for the past 68 years. Named one of 16 New American Poets by the Poetry Society of America, Hernandez was a finalist for the inaugural Split This Rock Freedom Plow Award for his work locating the victims of the 1948 plane wreck at Los Gatos Canyon. Hernandez will answer questions and sign books after the presentation.
