6 THE LATINO AMERICAN EXPERIENCE

Navigating the Information Age

October is National Information Literacy
Awareness Month

More than a decade ago, former President Barack Obama proclaimed October as National Information Literacy Awareness Month, highlighting the need for all Americans to be adept in the skills necessary to effectively navigate the Information Age.

“Every day, we are inundated with vast amounts of information,” said Obama in the official proclamation released Oct. 1, 2009. “A 24-hour news cycle and thousands of global television and radio networks, coupled with an immense array of online resources, have challenged our long-held perceptions of information management. Rather than merely possessing data, we must also learn the skills necessary to acquire, collate and evaluate information for any situation. This new type of literacy also requires competency with communication technologies, including computers and mobile devices that can help in our day-to-day decision-making.”

A lot has changed in our fast-paced world since 2009 and the need for information literacy is even greater now with the proliferation of fake news and digital technology usage skyrocketing (especially since 2020 when COVID-19 forced most everyone to stay home).

According to the American Library Association, “Being information literate includes the ability to distinguish fact from fiction... how to identify fake news sources and stories.”

In “Tech Talk: How to Spot Fake News,” presented June 5, 2020, on Zoom, Katlin Seagraves, former TCCL Digital

Being information literate includes the ability to distinguish fact from fiction... how to identify fake news sources and stories.”

Literacy Lab coordinator and now IT technician, said according to the Pew Research Center about 67 percent of teenagers and 47 percent of adults get their news from social media. “You can’t believe everything you see on the internet,” Seagraves said in this enlightening presentation exploring techniques for spotting false or misleading news. “The way that we find information has changed pretty dramatically in the last couple of decades. It used to be you got the paper on your doorstep every morning to see what is going on. But most times we get headlines from things like Google news, Yahoo news. I know lots of people that solely get their stuff from Facebook or Twitter.”

You can watch the “Tech Talk: How to Spot Fake News” presentation on TCCL’s YouTube channel here: <https://youtu.be/cMNZcXij7vI>. This talk will be of interest to you whether you are a technology expert or enthusiast, or just want to learn more about how technology works.

In addition to learning how to spot fake news, information literacy also includes learning when and how to use electronic resources. In “Tech Talk: Education Databases: When and How to Use Them,” presented July 31, 2020, Nick Abrahamson, reference librarian in Central Library’s Research Center, introduces library databases that serve educators and students.

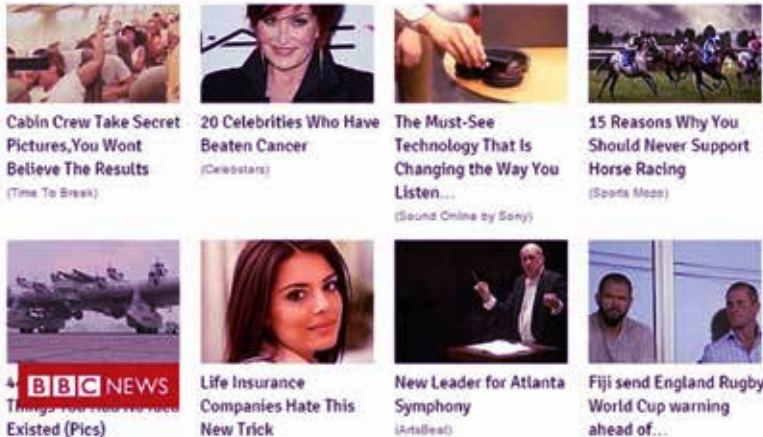

“Many of our online resources facilitate lesson plan creation, primary and secondary education, higher education and research, primary source retrieval and adult lifelong learning,” said Abrahamson.

All databases feature credible sources and information to make research easier and accurate.

The image displays three screenshots of library database interfaces. The top screenshot shows the 'Issues & Controversies' database with a search bar and a list of articles. The middle screenshot shows a grid of image thumbnails from various databases. The bottom screenshot shows the 'EBSCO Research Databases for High Schools' page, featuring a search bar and a list of featured databases including MAS Complete, History Reference Center, Literary Reference Center Plus, and Science Reference Center.

Academic Search Elite, eLibrary, Explora, Gale Virtual Reference Library, Homework HelpNow, IssueLab, Issues & Controversies, LinkedIn Learning (formerly Lynda.com), MAS Ultra Complete, New York Times Historical (1851-2017), Primary Search, Tulsa World (1989-present) and Universal Class are among the featured databases Abrahamson explores in this presentation, which is available to watch on TCCL's YouTube channel here: <https://youtu.be/9j-vietavSE>. All databases are available for free customer use at www.tulsalibrary.org/research/databases.

To test your knowledge and find neutral unbiased sources using digital literacy tools, the South Broken Arrow Library is offering a virtual escape room, "Finding Misinformation," during the month of October. Participants are invited to sleuth out misinformation in this interactive escape room. Go to www.tulsalibrary.org/events to participate and find the facts.

Improve your Information Literacy with LinkedIn Learning

The following courses are available for free 24/7. All you need is your TCCL library card!

Information Literacy: Learn about strategies for finding information — from a library, archive, database or the internet — and the ethics of using it. Librarian Elsa Loftis discusses different types of resources and explains how to evaluate their usefulness and trustworthiness. She also shows how to avoid plagiarism and copyright infringement, and accurately cite sources.

Spotting Misinformation Online: Whether you're seeking news, product reviews, health data or any other kind of information, it's important to use trustworthy sources. In this short course, Andrew Seaman, former ethics chair for the Society of Professional Journalists, shows how to quickly determine the accuracy and reliability of information you find online.

The Latino American Experience

L Do you have a research paper or project you need to do for Hispanic Heritage Month or just want to learn more about Latino Americans? This database makes it easy to learn about and research Latino American studies.

You can explore by historical time period. In each section, you can start off by reading its Overview and start exploring its Topic Centers. On every Topic Center page, you'll have access to key ideas, activities and resources relating to the subject.

Plus, the database features an Academic Success Corner, which includes helpful information on researching, writing, reading, critical thinking, working with primary sources and information literacy.

Although the home page of this database is not in Spanish, most other sections on this website can be translated into Spanish. Just click on a section and look for the "Translate" button on the top right-hand corner of the page.

New and coming soon titles for Children

Visit www.tulsalibrary.org to check out these titles and find more.

Turtle in Paradise By Jennifer L. Holm

In 1935, when her mother gets a job housekeeping for a woman who doesn't like children, 11-year-old Turtle is sent to stay with relatives she's never met in faraway Key West, Fla.

A Troop of Kangaroos By Lisa Mundorff

A party of jays, a parade of elephants, a stench of skunks and so many more make up this delightfully funny and informative picture book about animal group names! A Troop of Kangaroos is early nonfiction that will entertain and teach.

Thao By Thao Lam

"Thao" seems like a simple enough name. Only four letters – all of them belonging to many other names! And yet Thao had been called everything from "Tail" to "Theo" to "Towel." At one point, completely fed up, she decided it was time to try another name. Something "easy." Something like "Jennifer." But trying to be someone else only works for so long.

Battlefield Ghosts By Dinah Williams

A bloody soldier who disappears into thin air. Flickering orbs floating over a military cemetery. History is filled with brave fighters cut down in the heat of battle. But what if they aren't resting in peace? True Hauntings: Battlefield Ghosts revisits deadly clashes from the past and the ghosts they left behind.

Stuntboy, in the Meantime By Jason Reynolds

Portico Reeves' secret identity as Stuntboy allows him to use his superpower to keep everybody safe, but when his superhero parents start fighting a lot he feels the responsibility to save them.

Humongous Fungus By Lynne Boddy

Inhabiting a whole kingdom of their own, fungi can be found in every ecosystem. They carpet the forest floor, and hidden fungi decompose matter, feed plants and affect how animals function. Their beautiful mushrooms come in all colors, shapes and sizes. This book of fabulous fungi will intrigue and amaze young readers.

Baby Take-Home Kits!

Oct. 1-31

Stop by Central Library for a take-and-make kit specifically designed to help infants 0-12 months old with their early literacy skills! Each kit will include a Build-A-Reader (BAR) brochure with early literacy information, a BAR coloring book, two jumbo crayons, four high-contrast cards and supplies needed for an egg-shaker craft!

Community Mural Project: Hispanic Heritage Month

Oct. 1-15

Help us create a large community mural honoring the legacy and culture of our Latinx artists. Visit your local library and pick up a community mural kit. Each kit will come with the history of a Latinx artist and invite you to recreate one of their masterpieces. Return your finished canvas to your local library by Friday, Oct. 15. For all ages.

Spooky Stories:

Creative Writing Contest for Ages 8-18

Oct. 1-30

Thrills, chills and spine-tingling tales is what we're looking for! The top 10 winners in each age category will have their story published online and

BASE DE DATOS

La Experiencia Latinoamericana

L ¿Tiene un trabajo de investigación o un proyecto que necesita hacer para el Mes de la Herencia Hispana o simplemente quieres aprender más sobre los latinoamericanos? Esta base de datos facilita el aprendizaje y la investigación de estudios latinoamericanos.

Puedes explorar por período de tiempo histórico. En cada sección, puedes comenzar leyendo su descripción general y comenzar a explorar diferentes temas. En cada página de temas, tendrás acceso a ideas, actividades y recursos relacionados con el tema.

Además, la base de datos cuenta con un rincón de éxito académico, que incluye información útil sobre investigación, escritura, lectura, pensamiento crítico, trabajo con fuentes primarias y alfabetización de información.

Aunque la página de inicio de esta base de datos no está en español, la mayoría de las otras secciones de este sitio web se pueden traducir al español. Simplemente haga clic en una sección y busque el botón "Traducir" en la esquina superior derecha de la página.

Visite www.tulsalibrary.org para ver estos títulos y encontrar más.

Dominicana por Angie Cruz

El último día de 1964, la quinceañera Ana Canción se casa con Juan Ruiz, un hombre veinte años mayor que ella, en el campo dominicano. Al día siguiente se vuelve Ana Ruiz, una esposa confinada a un apartamento de un cuarto en Washington Heights.

Por culpa de Miss Bridgerton por Julia Quinn

A veces el amor se encuentra en el lugar más inesperado... Aunque esta no es una de esas veces. Todo el mundo espera que Billie Bridgerton se case con uno de los hermanos Rokesby. Las dos familias han sido vecinas durante siglos y, durante la infancia, Billie se crió como una salvaje junto a Edward y Andrew.

Nuestra parte de noche por Mariana Enriquez

Un padre y su hijo atraviesan Argentina por carretera, desde Buenos Aires hacia las cataratas de Iguazú, en la frontera norte con Brasil. Son los años de la junta militar, hay controles de soldados armados y tensión en el ambiente.

Mujeres del alma mía por Isabel Allende

En Mujeres del alma mía la gran autora chilena nos invita a acompañarla en este viaje personal y emocional donde repasa su vinculación con el feminismo desde la infancia hasta hoy.

La olla lenta regional por María Del Pozo

Gracias a un electrodoméstico tan sencillo como la olla lenta eléctrica, hoy puedes disfrutar de los mejores platos tradicionales de la cocina española hechos con el cuidado y el amor con el que los cocinaban nuestras abuelas.

Desapegarse sin anestesia por Walter Riso

El psicólogo Walter Riso nos explica en qué consiste el apego y sus causas, y nos proporciona las claves para enfrentarlo y prevenirlo, sin perder la pasión por alcanzar nuestros sueños y meta personales.
