24 WORLD IN A BOX

BUILD YOUR TECHNO- LOGICAL TOOLBOX

As we live in a digital age, Tulsa City-County Library knows it is vital to keep relevant in these rapidly changing technological times and that it is imperative to provide our customers with the tools necessary to thrive in the 21st century.

According to the American Library Association's Digital Literacy Task Force, digital literacy is "the ability to use information and communication technologies to find, evaluate, create and communicate information, requiring both cognitive and technical skills."

TCCL's Digital Literacy Lab coordinator Devin Evans showcases the Digital Literacy Lab.

Like information literacy, digital literacy requires skills in locating and using information and in critical thinking. Beyond that, however, digital literacy involves knowing digital tools and using them in communicative, collaborative ways through social engagement.

“The phrase ‘digital literacy’ is often associated with high-tech tools such as developing code or using virtual reality,” said Devin Evans, coordinator of TCCL’s Digital Literacy Lab. “However, library staff provide digital literacy support every day when assisting customers creating an email or accessing the library’s digital collection. Those instances of one-to-one digital learning are essential to encouraging digital literacy.”

As the world is increasingly reliant on digital content and communication, Evans said it is especially important for people to be able to both navigate information online and participate in digital environments safely and responsibly, whether that be users with a casual interest in technology, professional artists, family historians, nonprofits or local organizations.

Located at Central Library, the Digital Literacy Lab is a creator-focused working space where library customers can develop new apps and software skills, try out new pieces of equipment, digitize family history and more. Available software includes Adobe Creative Cloud, Apple Creative Software (iMovie, GarageBand), Xcode, AutoCAD for Mac, Final Cut Pro X,

After being closed during the pandemic, the Digital Literacy Lab is now available for customer appointments again!

To book an appointment, call the Digital Literacy Lab at 918-549-7474 or email DLL@tulsalibrary.org. The hours of operation are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Thursday from noon to 8 p.m. In addition to in-person instruction, the Digital Literacy Lab continues to offer its monthly virtual Tech Talk series.

Previous Tech Talk programs include:

- Mac Computers Beginners:

A flight simulator and other high-tech equipment are available for customers to use in the Digital Literacy Lab by appointment only.

among many others. Scanners, a light box, VHS and VHS-C converter, record converter, audiocassette converter, DVD and Blu-ray duplicators, 8mm and Super8 film reel converter are among the equipment available in the lab.

“As the pandemic has forced all of us to rely more on technology to accomplish tasks, TCCL wants to provide a place for people to utilize technology in a way that captures their passions.

Through TCCL’s Tech Talks and other upcoming programs, we hope people can utilize technology not just for work but for themselves as well,” Evans said. “The Digital Literacy Lab has so many wonderful pieces of equipment, and I’d like all TCCL users to know that they have access to tools to equip them with skills to promote lifelong learning and a space to continue to practice their tech skills.” ■

Mañanaland por Pam Muñoz Ryan

A Maximiliano Córdoba le encantan las historias, especialmente la leyenda que le cuenta Buelo sobre un mítico guardián que ayuda a los viajeros valientes de corazón puro en un viaje a la tierra del mañana. Si Max pudiera ver el mañana, sabría si lo aceptarán en el famoso club de fútbol de Santa María y si alguna vez encontrará a su madre, quien desapareció cuando él era bebé.

Gabi, fragmentos de una adolescente por Isabel Quintero

Gabi Hernández está en su último año de la preparatoria. Para entretenerse, escribe todo lo que le pasa en su diario: las solicitudes a las universidades, el embarazo de Cindy, cuando Sebastián salió del clóset, los chicos guapos de su clase, la adicción de su padre a la metanfetamina, y toda la comida que se le antoja. Pero lo mejor de todo lo que escribe es la poesía que la ayuda a ser quien es.

Hermosa Eternidad por Renée Ahdieh

En 1872, Nueva Orleans es una ciudad gobernada por los muertos. Pero para Celine Rousseau, de diecisiete años, Nueva Orleans es un refugio seguro después de verse obligada a huir de su vida como modista en París. Adoptada por las hermanas del convento de las Ursulinas en medio de la temporada de carnaval, Celine se deja cautivar rápidamente por la vibrante ciudad, desde su música hasta sus elegantes veladas y incluso su peligro.

Hora de Brillar* por Angie Thomas

Bri quiere ser una de las mejores raperas de todos los tiempos. Como hija de una leyenda del hip hop underground que murió antes de que alcanzar el éxito, Bri tiene unos zapatos gigantes que llenar. Pero cuando su primera canción se hace viral por los motivos equivocados, se encuentra en el centro de la controversia y los medios la retratan como una amenaza mayor que un rapero.

Violet y Finch* por Jennifer Niven

Violet está rota. Finch está roto. ¿Pueden dos mitades rotas reconstruirse? Esta es la historia de una chica que aprende a vivir de un chico que pretende morir; de dos jóvenes que se encuentran y dejan de contar los días para empezar a vivirlos.

Casa de Tierra y Sangre* por Sarah J. Maas

Bryce Quinlan tenía una vida perfecta, trabajando todo el día y divirtiéndose toda la noche, hasta que un demonio asesina a sus mejores amigos, dejándola herida y sola. Cuando el culpable está detrás de las rejas pero los crímenes continúan, Bryce se encuentra a sí misma en el corazón de la investigación... y hará lo que sea necesario para vengar la muerte de sus amigos.

Los Orígenes del Día de los Muertos

El Día de los Muertos es una tradición principalmente mexicana donde las familias dan la bienvenida a las almas de sus familiares fallecidos. Una mezcla de ritual mesoamericano, religión europea y cultura española, la festividad se celebra cada año del 31 de octubre al 2 de noviembre. Mientras que el 31 de octubre es Halloween, el 1 de noviembre es "el Día de los Inocentes", o el Día de los Niños, y Todos los Santos. El 2 de noviembre es el Día de los Difuntos o el Día de los Muertos.

Según tradición, los seres queridos que han fallecido regresan a la medianoche el 31 de octubre y los espíritus de los niños pueden reunirse con sus familias durante 24 horas. Los espíritus de los adultos pueden hacer lo mismo el 2 de noviembre.

A pesar de lo que sugiere el nombre, el Día de Muertos no es un día de tristeza, sino de alegría.

En esencia, el día reconoce la muerte como parte de la experiencia humana. El día busca honrar la vida de los difuntos para que regresen por un día y se despierten de su sueño eterno para compartir alimentos, bebidas y celebraciones con sus familias. Las familias preparan ofrendas en las tumbas o en sus hogares, y las ofrendas se pueden decorar con velas, cempasúchil, y elementos naturales como sal.

Las raíces del Día de Muertos vienen de los rituales en honor a los muertos en la Mesoamérica precolombina. Los aztecas y los nahuas que vivían en lo que ahora es el centro de México tenían una visión cíclica del universo y veían la muerte como una parte integral y omnipresente de la vida. Al morir, se creía que una persona viajaba a Chicunamictlán, la Tierra de los Muertos. Solo después de superar nueve niveles desafiantes, un viaje de varios años, el alma de la persona finalmente pudo llegar al Mictlán, el lugar de descanso final. En los rituales nahuas en honor a los muertos, que se llevan a cabo tradicionalmente en agosto, los miembros de la familia proporcionaron alimentos, agua y herramientas para ayudar a los fallecidos en este difícil viaje. Esto inspiró la práctica contemporánea del Día de Muertos.

Los símbolos más destacados relacionados con el Día de Muertos son las calacas y las calaveras. A principios del siglo XX, el caricaturista José Guadalupe Posada incorporó figuras esqueléticas en su arte burlándose de políticos y comentando la política revolucionaria. Su obra más conocida, La Calavera Catrina, presenta un esqueleto femenino adornado con maquillaje y vestida con ropa elegante. El grabado de 1910 pretendía ser una declaración sobre los mexicanos que adoptan las modas europeas sobre su propia herencia y tradiciones. La Calavera Catrina fue adoptada como uno de los íconos del Día de Muertos más reconocibles y es un recordatorio que al morir, todas terminamos como esqueletos. ■

DIGITALEARN.ORG

Un centro en línea para el apoyo y la formación de la literacia digital

Desarrollado por la Asociación de Bibliotecas Públicas con el apoyo del Instituto de Servicios de Museos y Bibliotecas, este sitio web ofrece tutoriales sobre diversos temas de alfabetización digital y tecnología en inglés y español.

Si es nuevo en las computadoras, o no las ha usado por un tiempo, y está un poco inseguro e incómodo, o simplemente necesita un poco de actualización, este sitio tiene las herramientas para ayudarlo a aprender la tecnología a su propio ritmo y ganar la confianza que necesitas para tener éxito.

El sitio también ofrece un conjunto sólido de recursos y herramientas para que el personal de la biblioteca y otros educadores lo utilicen en la capacitación comunitaria. La capacitación en diseño instruccional y las plantillas en blanco permiten al usuario crear sus propios cursos.
