Kids Read

CURIOUS WORLD

A friendly seal takes a break on the east coast of New Zealand's South Island. What do you think this seal would say if it could talk?

Ms. Tori loves volunteering at the Oklahoma Aquarium, where sometimes she gets to dress up like a mermaid!

Aquarium Librarian

Ms. Tori LOVES Kids, Books & Ocean Animals!

Tori Hamilton – better known as “Ms. Tori” – has been a children’s associate at the Glenpool Library for more than six years. But she also loves the Oklahoma Aquarium and all things ocean! Read this Q&A with Ms. Tori to learn more.

Q : You work at the Glenpool Library helping children and families find great books and information, but you also have been a volunteer with the Oklahoma Aquarium. The library’s Summer Reading Program theme this year is “Oceans of Possibilities. What does it feel like to bring together “Aquarium Tori” with “Librarian Tori” in this way?

A : It’s pretty great! The Summer Reading Program is usually a busy time for librarians, but I feel uniquely prepared this year. Haha!

Q : How did you get interested in ocean animals and the aquarium? What is your favorite thing to do as a volunteer for the aquarium?

A : I’m a lifelong animal lover so when the opportunity came to volunteer at the aquarium, I jumped at it. I was an active weekly volunteer for two years, though these days I only go in when they need help with big events.

My favorite part of volunteering is talking to people about the exhibits. When people say, “Wow! Look at that!”, I love being able to say, “Right? But did you know ...” There’s nothing like sharing enthusiasm for cool things with an equally enthusiastic audience.

Aquarium Librarian continued ...

Q: Do you have any fond ocean memories? For someone who is going to the ocean for the first time, what do you recommend they do?

A: Well, all of my ocean memories are fond ones! It's hard to have a bad time at the beach! If you're going for the first time, try everything! Walk barefoot in the sand, dig for shells, float in the water and read under a colorful umbrella. You never know which parts will be your favorites.

Q: What is your absolute, all-time favorite ocean animal? Why?

A: I love octopuses! They're just so amazing! I can go on and on about how great they are. (In fact, I wrote a list of cool octopus facts, in this very guide you are reading!)

Q: You are known for singing and playing guitar in your storytimes at the Glenpool Library. Do you have a favorite ocean-themed song that you think kids will like? What makes it a good song?

A: I love the old campfire song "Barges" about watching ships in the harbor. It's upbeat and catchy. So cheerful! *NOTE TO READERS: Watch Ms. Tori sing this song at www.youtube.com/tulsalibrary!

Q: You also like to do yoga moves in storytime. Any ocean yoga move kids could easily do?

A: Of course! My favorite "ocean" pose is Warrior 2. Technically, it has nothing to do with the ocean, but it's perfect for pretending you're surfing while you build strong surfing muscles!

Q: What do you want kids to get out of the Summer Reading Program? Any words of advice or wisdom for them? What does the library have to offer them?

A: Mostly I want kids to know it's not just about the books! It's about what's inside them. Knowledge and stories, cool pictures and cool facts. Reading doesn't have to be boring if you read about things you love.

Oh, no! The octopus has captured Ms. Tori! Well, not really ... she's just getting ready for an ocean octopus storytime at the Glenpool Library.

COOL OCTOPUS FACTS

Octopuses have blue blood.

While humans (and most other animals) have iron in their blood cells, octopuses have copper in theirs. This not only gives their blood its blue color but also makes it easier for octopuses to survive in low-oxygen environments.

Octopus arms have a mind of their own (sort of).

Octopus brains are spread throughout their bodies, including in their arms! In fact, if an octopus is attacked by predators, they might sacrifice an arm and run away. The arm will keep moving on its own to confuse the predator!

Octopuses are masters of disguise.

Not only do octopuses have the same color-changing cells that chameleons have, their springy skin can also bunch up to look like plants or smooth out to look like stones on the ocean floor.

WHY does Ms. Tori LOVE these sea creatures?

Octopuses can solve puzzles.

Octopuses are some of the smartest animals alive. Scientists have watched octopuses solve problems, escape complicated situations and even use tools in the wild.

Not all octopuses are the same.

There are as many species of octopus as there are breeds of dog! Some live in shallow, warm waters close to beaches, while others live in the deepest, darkest parts of the ocean floor. The adorable Dumbo Octopus has fins that look like ears. The colorful Wonderpus is known to be extra friendly around divers and loves to have its picture taken. And the Giant Pacific Octopus can weigh over 100 pounds! Which kind will be your favorite??

Where did Ms. Tori learn these facts?

From these books!

by Katherine Harmon Courage

The Soul of an Octopus

Sea Words in the World

Fun FISH Vocabulary for your Ocean Adventures!

There are so many great words you can learn when reading about the ocean, seas and all the animals inside and around. The more words you know about a topic (like the ocean!), the more you'll be able to learn when you read. Here are just some of our favorite words, with facts about fish and other sea animals using these words.

Ocean animals can be either vertebrates, which means they have backbones, or invertebrates, which means they don't. Whales and seals are vertebrates; sponges, jellyfish, octopuses and starfish are invertebrates.

vertebrates

Snails, shrimp, clams and some kinds of fish eat algae, which is a kind of plant that grows under water. (Some humans even eat algae!)

invertebrates

There are over 32,000 kinds of fish! They are part of marine life. Marine means anything related to the ocean or underwater environments.

marine

Did you know that seahorses are actually fish? Unlike other fish, they swim upright and do not have scales, which are parts of the fish that bend but are very strong.

scales

bioluminescent

Sunlight does not reach the deepest parts of the ocean, so sea animals who live there are often bioluminescent, which means they have special body features that give off light. Other animals are blind and get around with other senses than sight.

algae

Walrus are warm-blooded mammals who breathe air, so the ocean doesn't seem like the best place for them to live. But they have adaptations, or changes to their bodies, that help them survive, including flippers to help them get around on ice as well as swim.

adaptations

Jellyfish use tentacles, or long, boneless body parts like arms, to get around, though they mostly rely on water currents, or the movement of water by wind or temperature.
