RING IN THE NEW YEAR WITH A TRIP DOWN MEMORY LANE

TCCL invites you to ring in the New Year by taking an exciting trip down memory lane. Journey back through the last three decades of TCCL’s inspiring history in our new book, Tulsa City-County Library: 1992-2021: A Legacy of Innovation, Integration, Inspiration, written by John Wooley and published by Babylon Books.

A must-read for all library lovers, this beautiful book recounts TCCL’s wonderful legacy, while showcasing through vivid stories and photographs how our library system continually celebrates the diversity of our customers, supports intellectual and artistic freedom, serves as a bulwark against suppression and censorship, and deeply enriches the intellectual life of all the communities we serve.

The book picks up where we left off in our first history book, Tulsa City-County Library 1912-1991, written by Mildred Ladner Thompson and published by Lion & Thorne Publishing in 1992.

“From the very beginning, when I met with TCCL CEO Kimberly Johnson and her predecessor Pat Woodrum, I knew this book would be a special one. Writing it helped remind me of how much I care about libraries and the brave and literate people who staff them, as well as for the incredible amount of good they do for their communities – especially in these challenging times,” wrote Wooley in the book’s Acknowledgments.

“I have to admit, though, that I went into this with a woefully inadequate idea of the depth and breadth of what the Tulsa City-County Library system offers us all on a daily basis. As I researched and interviewed, and boiled down what I found, I became increasingly aware not only of what a treasure we have here, but also how much its very existence has been challenged over the years, and how well and how often TCCL has stood against the dragons of oppression, censorship and marginalization.”

A four-time finalist for the Oklahoma Book Award, Wooley has written, co-written or edited more than 50 books, including the recent bestseller (with Brett Bingham), Twentieth-Century Honky-Tonk, a history of the first 75 years of Tulsa’s famed Cain’s Ballroom. An entertainment writer for the Tulsa World for 23 years (1983-2006), Wooley is the producer and host of the highly rated Swing on This, Tulsa’s only western-swing radio program, heard every Saturday night on NPR affiliate KWGS 89.5 FM. In 2015, he was inducted into the Oklahoma Historians Hall of Fame.

Tulsa City-County Library: 1992-2021: A Legacy of Innovation, Integration, Inspiration is available for checkout at www.tulsalibrary.org or purchase at Fulton Street Books & Coffee or through your neighborhood TCCL branch.

Sebastian Lantos, Victor Orta, Dr. Luis Reinoso, Blanca Roman, Irma Chajecski and Julian Rodríguez had the honors of cutting the ribbon at the grand opening of the Hispanic Resource Center at Martin Regional Library in October 1999.

Reading advocate Jeanne B. Goodwin got a special gift for her 100th birthday: The Jeanne B. Goodwin Storytime Room at Rudisill Regional Library was named in her honor in June 2003.

Teresa Runnels, American Indian Resource Center coordinator, visits with Wilma Mankiller, first female principal chief of the Cherokee Nation and 2006 Circle of Honor winner.

While the COVID-19 pandemic postponed the 2020 Peggy V. Helmerich Distinguished Author Award gala honoring Marilynne Robinson, the gala committee hosted a "Curbside Gala Event" at Central Library in October 2020.

Former and current library staff, local dignitaries and community volunteers gathered to celebrate South Broken Arrow Library's 25th birthday on April 4, 2019.

SANKOFA FREEDOM AWARD

Honoring Terry McMillan

Friday, Feb. 9 • 6:30 p.m. • Rudisill Regional Library

American novelist Terry McMillan will receive the 2024 Sankofa Freedom Award, presented by Tulsa City-County Library's African American Resource Center and the Tulsa Library Trust. The award, which consists of a $10,000 cash prize and engraved plaque, is given biennially to a nationally acclaimed individual who has dedicated their life to educating and improving the greater African American community.

McMillan is known for her character-driven novels that appeal to various ages, races and genders. Her love of reading began as a teenager, when she shelved books at the local library. Previously unexposed to Black writers, McMillan immersed herself in African American literature in college, which inspired her to write books that encapsulate and normalize the experiences of Black women.

McMillan is the No. 1 New York Times bestselling author of 12 books, including Waiting to Exhale and How Stella Got Her Groove Back, which were both adapted into major motion pictures. Her debut novel, Mama, won the Doubleday New Voices award as well as the American Book Award, and her second novel, Disappearing Acts, became an HBO film in 2000. Her sixth novel, A Day Late and a Dollar Short, became a Lifetime Original Movie starring Whoopi Goldberg.

In addition to winning the NAACP Image Award and the Essence Magazine Lifetime Achievement Award, all of McMillan's novels have been New York Times bestsellers, including her latest release It's Not All Downhill From Here.

Use Medline Plus to start and keep healthy habits!

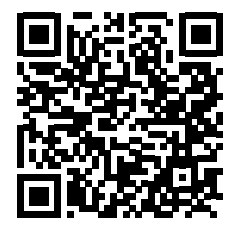

Staying healthy can be a challenge, but research shows that good habits, like clean eating, can help you reduce the risk of chronic disease and feel better.

WHAT IT IS: Medline Plus is a free online resource with information on health topics, drugs, directories and dictionaries to help you find the health info you need.

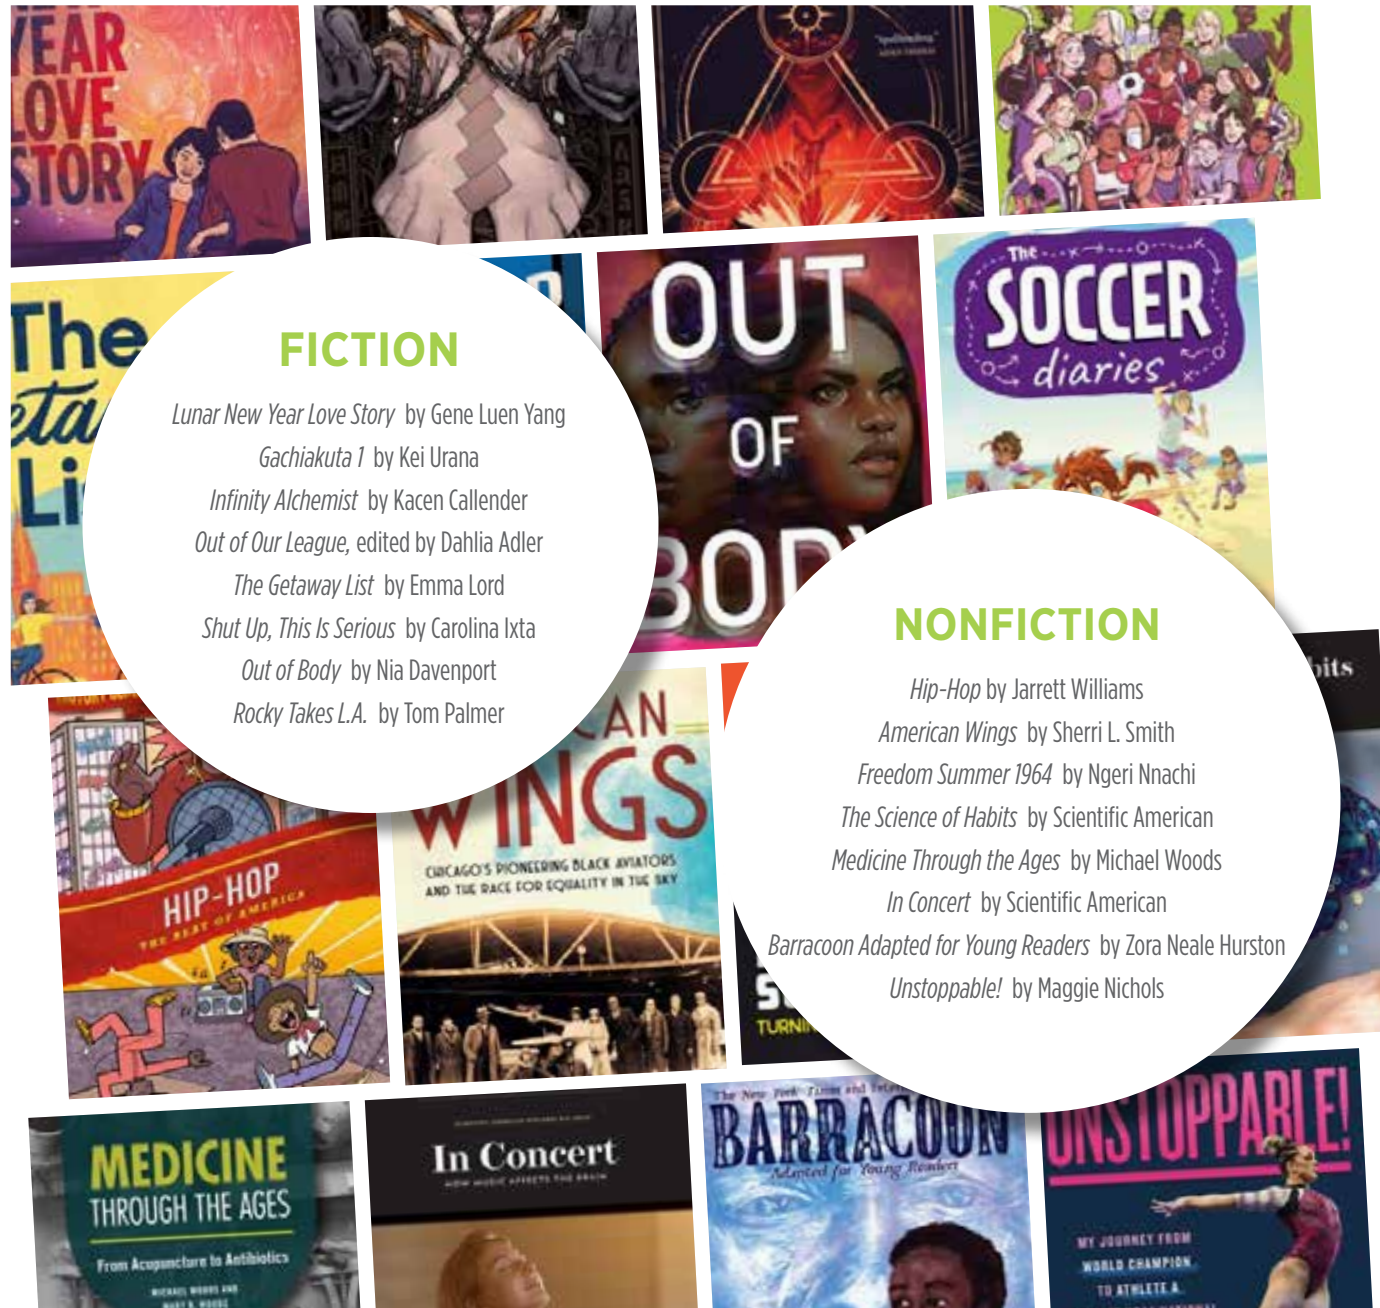

Medline Plus recipes show you how to prepare tasty, healthy meals that help you develop a healthy eating pattern. Browse recipes by meal (breakfast, lunch, dinner or snacks) or by categories, such as dairy free, low fat, gluten sensitive, low sodium, soups and more.

HOW TO USE IT:
 Visit www.tulsalibrary.org/databases to find Medline Plus in the alphabetical list and then click to access (no login or registration is required). From the resource homepage, scroll down to find Healthy Recipes on the left side.

Una guía mensual de eventos, servicios y recursos de la Biblioteca de la Ciudad y Condado de Tulsa

Pasado, Presente y un Futuro Prometedor

Escrito por Ana Davis, asistente bilingüe de servicio al cliente, Biblioteca Regional Martin

Cuando hablamos de historia a muchos nos da curiosidad a otros no, pero siempre es bueno saber la historia de tras de algo que directa o indirectamente nos afecta. Por ejemplo, ¿sabías que la primera biblioteca de la ciudad y condado de Tulsa estaba ubicada en el sótano de la corte? O que la primera biblioteca en la ciudad de

Sand Springs fue fundada en 1920 por el Club de Mujeres de Sand Springs, y se inauguró en abril de 1921 en el Ayuntamiento con 500 libros donados.

Dentro de las bibliotecas de TCCL hay muchas historias desde como empezamos hasta poco a poco ir construyendo más alrededor de la ciudad y sus municipios. La biblioteca Central diseñada por Charles Ward y Joseph Koberling, el edificio de cuatro plantas fue aclamado como modelo de arquitectura contemporánea cuando se inauguró, gracias a eso personas de todo el país, así como de varios países del mundo, viajaban para ver esta biblioteca que en ese entonces había sido construida para el futuro. Tras permanecer cerrada durante tres años para someterse a una renovación la Biblioteca Central reabrió sus puertas el 1 de octubre de 2016, rejuvenecida para satisfacer las necesidades del cliente del siglo XXI.

En el verano de 1976 la Biblioteca Regional Allie Beth Martin abrió sus puertas por primera vez con una capacidad de 50.000 libros, situada en 2601 S. Garnett. Casi 50 años después de abrir sus puertas, la Biblioteca Regional Martin es una de las bibliotecas más visitadas del sistema. Otro dato interesante de la TCCL es que la Biblioteca Regional Martin alberga el Centro de Recursos Hispanos, ique cumplirá 25 años en 2024!

Fue en 1999 que el Centro de Recurso Hispanos fue establecido para prestar servicios de que la biblioteca ofrece a la comunidad hispanohablantes y como recurso para las personas buscando información sobre la historia y cultura de los Latinos en los Estados Unidos y América Latina. Sara Martínez fue la primera coordinadora la cual estuvo a cargo. Ahora, ella es la manager de la biblioteca Nathan Hale.

Hoy Amairani Pérez es la coordinadora del Centro y quién iba a decir que aquella niña que solía venir con su madre a la biblioteca Martin Regional es la que está al mando. Como ella, somos muchos los que empezamos visitando una biblioteca y ahora somos miembros del personal de TCCL.

La historia es una ciencia que nos permite conocer el pasado para comprender el presente en que vivimos y construir nuestro futuro. Una de las principales razones por las que la historia es importante hoy en día es para comprender el cambio en la sociedad actual y cómo surgió la sociedad en la que vivimos. Nos permite entender el presente y construir el futuro, y gracias a ello las bibliotecas de la ciudad y del condado de Tulsa han ido evolucionando para ofrecer un servicio excelente a la comunidad de Tulsa y mejorar así la calidad de vida de todos nosotros.

Martin abrió sus puertas por primera vez con una capacidad de 50.000 libros

Sara Martínez, manager de la Biblioteca Nathan Hale, fue la primera coordinadora del Centro de Recurso Hispanos.
